

A piece of your own.

Tell us what you have in mind. A room, a practical need or a favourite detail is enough to begin. Complete what you can; leave anything undecided blank.

Fill this PDF digitally, save a copy, or print and write by hand.

Your name

Email

Studio / company, if applicable

Your role: owner, designer, architect or other

Project town / city and country

Phone, if you would like a call

What would you like to commission?

Piece or pieces, quantity, and any P&G collection or design you have in mind.

What does the piece need to do?

How will you use it? What needs to fit, be stored or work differently?

A place in your home.

Help us understand the setting. Rough dimensions and a few photographs are useful; final measurements can be discussed as the design develops.

Approximate dimensions and units

Width × depth × height, or the available space. Please state mm, cm or inches.

The room and its surroundings

Existing furniture, colours, light, nearby doors or anything that affects the piece.

Materials, finishes and patterns

What are you drawn to? Include preferences, references and anything to avoid.

Delivery and installation access

Doorways, stairs, lifts, tight turns, wall construction or site conditions to discuss.

From idea to conversation.

These details help us shape a useful first discussion. You do not need to settle every design decision before getting in touch.

Budget range and currency

Preferred timing / any fixed deadline

What matters most?

Your must-haves, practical constraints and any decisions still to be made.

Who else is involved?

Designer, architect or project contact, and who will coordinate installation.

Send us your starting point.

Save your completed brief and email it with any room photographs, sketches, plans or material references. If an image needs explanation, add a short note.
